Newtown, Pa., Feb. 16, 2015—With the introduction of its innovative new Residences at Llenroc, Chandler Hall now offers the option of residential living in a supportive environment. The new living arrangement is ideally suited to those who are not ready for a Personal Care/Assisted Living environment, but want to escape the worries of home ownership.

“At The Residences at Llenroc, you can enjoy an independent lifestyle with several liberating extras built-in to your monthly fee,” says Tim Murphy, Senior Director of Marketing & Admissions. “The extras include two delicious daily meals, weekly housekeeping, fitness and wellness programs, regularly scheduled trips for shopping and for getting to appointments.”

The Residences at Llenroc are centrally located on the campus of Chandler Hall, a Kendal Affiliate, in Newtown. A nonprofit community founded in the Quaker tradition, Chandler Hall offers a complete continuum of care, including residential living, personal care, nursing care and hospice accommodations. Llenroc residents who may need short- or long-term health care or rehabilitation will receive priority access to such services.

Monthly fees include: lunch and dinner daily, heat and air conditioning, electricity, water and sewer, trash and snow removal, outside maintenance, grounds keeping, campus security, campus shuttle service, fitness and aquatic center membership, and an emergency response pendant. On-site services available at modest additional cost include: beauty salon/barber shop, cable TV, and telephone service.

“The Residences at Llenroc provide an opportunity for increased social engagement and help maintaining your independence, while giving you and your loved ones the peace of mind of knowing that case management, nutrition and other supportive services are available, if needed,” says Murphy. “And, with the aid of our therapy pool and exercise classes available at our on-site YMCA, you can add to your sense of well-being.”
